ATLANTA INFLUENCES EVERYTHING

Even voting! Even when they tried to run the poster child for athletes suffering from CTE (Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy) Herschel Walker. PEOPLE STILL VOTED! And turned Georgia BLUE!

Even when they took away absentee ballot drop boxes, reduced the days for early voting. Even when they outlawed giving bottles of water to individuals standing on lines to vote. PEOPLE STILL VOTED!

Because good bad or indifferent we still influenced it. So now we have Madam DA Fani Willis and Letitia "Tish" James, Attorney General for the State of New York, taking on a border line maniacal, full on psychotic, certified stamped sealed and delivered narcissist. Did you not expect these Black women to catch hell?

These two women are the 1%. The rest of the so called men who had the opportunity to stand up to the "tangerine trash can" passed on it, punked out. And I'm gonna' leave that right there!

Publisher Alan S. Hill supports DA Fani Willis in the tRump election interference trial and her bid for re-election.

Every voting cycle you hear "This is the most important election in history". Atlanta, Georgia, Fulton County will certainly see elections in the future that will have dire repercussions and consequences. We will always be under attack by forces seen and unseen. Some overtly racist, others subtly applied, some by others and some by our own.

Remember all skin-folk ain't kinfolk. But "voting by our folks is how our folks can make a difference".

We won't win every race but we won't lose every race either. What we will do is stand on the shoulders of those who fought for the right to vote, whether for the wrong or right person.

Either way 2024 is a good year exercise the power of the vote.

OUR WORK

Individuals often don't vote because they don't know where candidates stand and are confused about how to find out. Widespread political cynicism, disinformation, and spin don't help. Nonpartisan candidate guides provide a concise and credible way to compare candidates' stands and make clear why voting matters.

Lift Every Vote And Rise produced digital and printed non-partisan Voter's Guide that provided voters with a side-by-side look at candidates and their views on issues voters care about most.

Senate Committee Passes Bill To Curb The Booting Of Cars In Georgia

An effort to cut back on the practice of booting cars is back on the agenda at the State Capitol. Last year State Senator Josh McLaurin (D-Sandy Springs) introduced a bill to outright ban booting. It never made it to the floor for a vote so this year he is back with HB119 that is more limited in scope.

HB119 would ban property owners or businesses from hiring companies to automatically monitor parking lots. They would be required to call the companies in each instance of an illegally parked car.

The bill would also prohibit a person from paying a property owner for the right to boot or tow a vehicle from that property. Passage of this bill would regulate booting the same way the state regulates towing.

The booting industry's practices were brought back into the spotlight in 2023 when the Boot Girls in Buckhead began advertising their services of using a key to remove a boot from a customer's vehicle for a fee.

What's Next: The bill now moves to the Senate floor for consideration.

State Legislators Prepare For May Primary.

With the exception of 16 lawmakers who are retiring, a majority of the 236-member Georgia General Assembly will be running in November.

- U.S. Rep. David Scott is facing eight challengers for his 13th Congressional District seat.
- U.S. Rep. Lucy McBath, who is running in the newly drawn 6th Congressional District after Republican lawmakers reshaped her current 7th District to favor GOP candidates is running against two democrats and one republican.
- Incumbent Rep. Mesha Mainor, R-Atlanta, who switched from the democratic party to the republican party in 2023 is running in the heavily Democratic 56th district. She'll face opposition from four Democratic challengers
- Incumbent Sen. Elena Parent is being challenged by veteran lawmaker Nadine Thomas for the newly formed Senate District 44. The new district was created out of what was District 42 during last year's redistricting session. Thomas served in the Georgia House of Representatives from 1991 to 1993 and became the first Black female to serve in the state Senate (1993 to 2005).

And the down's....

- Senate Bill 189 sets new rules for challenging voters and who can qualify to be placed on Georgia's presidential ballots.

This continuation of voter suppression rules that state lawmakers have instituted over the past few years to dissuade voters and make the election process tougher will take effect in July 2024. Election workers will be further overwhelmed with additional voter eligibility challenges as a result of this bill.

The legislation, which now goes to Gov. Kemp for consideration, includes provisions to remove the secretary of state from the state election board, let any political party that qualifies for the presidential election in at least 20 states or territories be placed on Georgia's presidential ballot, and make it easier for counties to fill vacancies when an elected official prematurely leaves office. The bill also calls for all advance and absentee ballots to be counted within an hour of the polls closing, changes ballot design and creates voting changes for the homeless.

What Didn't Make The Cut....

- SB386 Measures to legalize sports betting
- The review and possible roll back the state's film tax credit, which offers over $1 billion in tax rebates to production companies each year. The Senate settled on a bill that would require movie producers to film in more Georgia locations, use more local crew and invest more in local studios to earn the credit. But on the last day of session, the film bill was rolled into SB349 which also contains tax credit measures for interactive gaming and affordable housing.

2024 Georgia Legislative Session

It's a wrap... After a marathon session of late-night legislating, the 157th General Assembly worked until the wee hours of the morning passing bills for Gov. Kemp's consideration, thus leaving a plethora of up's and downs.

The up's...

- State employees will get additional $3,000 raises, including law enforcement officers, corrections officers and child welfare workers.
- The two chambers agreed to provide hundreds of millions of dollars more for Medicaid programs, including $18.6 million to increase payments to some medical providers, such as obstetricians, optometrists, audiologists and physical therapists.
- Adult dental care was also fully funded with an additional $10.5 million, and independent pharmacists will see higher reimbursement rates through a new $6.2 million appropriation.
- Behavioral health got a boost, with $2.5 million to expand jail-based competency programs, $26 million for housing voucher slots and $1 million to expand mental health services in schools.
- A backlog of cases at the Sexual Offender Risk Review Board will be addressed through a $2.5 million increase
- $19 million will go to domestic violence shelters and sexual assault centers.
- $866 million in capital projects for schools systems, colleges, universities and state-funded agencies will be funded with cash rather than bonds, reducing future debt obligations.

Dear Residents of Fulton County,

I hope this letter finds you well and in good spirits. My name is Ali Carter, a father of six and a dedicated community servant. I have announced my candidacy for Fulton County Commissioner and for those who may not know me personally, I come from a background rooted in community empowerment and grassroots activism. My journey in service traces back to my time in Chicago with the Chicago Board of Education, where I learned the value of dedication to community affairs long before considering a run for public office.

I understand that some of you may have heard about a challenging chapter in my life, particularly the incident that occurred shortly before Mayor André Dickens's inauguration. I want to address this directly. Yes, I was arrested and escorted off a plane for domestic terroristic threats. This exaggerated claim stemmed from a 2020 warrant that had never been served, originating from my ex-wife regarding a dispute over her then-boyfriend spanking our son. This experience gave me firsthand insight into the complexities of our local justice system, as well as issues surrounding fathers' rights and it reinforced my commitment to advocating for fairness, justice, and accurate representation for all members of our community.

I am committed to unseating the incumbent, Khadijah Abdur-Rahman and ushering in a new era of positive change, cohesiveness, and advancement for our county. We have encountered numerous challenges under its current leadership and it is abundantly clear that we require fresh leadership. I am dedicated to championing the people's agenda and fostering a sense of unity and progress within our community.

As your Fulton County Commissioner, together we can overcome these challenges and pave the way for a brighter future for all residents of Fulton County. I respectfully ask for your support and your vote in the upcoming election. With your backing, we can embark on a journey toward a stronger Fulton County that serves the interests of every individual within its borders.

Sincerely,
Ali Carter

Note:

District 56 is currently represented by Mesha Mainor (R). In a stinging betrayal to the district, Mesha switched to the Republican Party on July 11, 2023 despite 56th District constituents voting nearly 90 percent Democrat in the 2020 presidential election.

As a result, Mesha became the only Black GOP state lawmaker, giving Republicans a 102-78 majority in the Georgia House of Representatives.
